Patrick, on his return trip from Rome, received the new ones from Palladius' do under the Guide of St. Germain due to the preparations for the Irish mission. Probably in the summer months of the year 433, Patrick and the company of him landed in the mouth of Rão Vantry near Wicklow Head. The Druids were in arms against him. But Patrick was not discouraged. The missionary Intrédo resolved to Dalriad Children of God. He rested for a few days on the islands of the coast of Skerries, one of which Aã<sup>o</sup>n retains the name of Inis-Patrick, and probably visited the adjacent continent, which in the old days was known as Holm Patrick. The tradition with affection with af Boyne. Many of the natives there gathered around him and listened with joyful tids of the Redeemer in their own sweet tongue. There was also his first miracle in the Irish soil to confirm the honor due to the Holy Virgin, and the divine birth of our Savior. Leaving one of him's company to continue the work of the auspicious instrument began, he hastened Strangford Loughand Allé left his ship continued his journey through land towards Slemish. "Allow him to have his way", said St. Patrick to the chieftain, "he shall be heir to my sacred mission." Thenceforth Benen was the inseparable companion of the saint, and the prophecy was fulfilled, for Benen is named among the "comhards" or sucessors of St. Patrick in Armagh. It was on 26 March, Easter Sunday, in 433, that the eventful assembly was to meet at Tara, and the decree went forth that from the preceeding day the fires throughout the kingdom should be extinguished until the signal blaze was kindled at the royal mansion. The chiefs and Brehons came in full numbers and the druids too would muster all their strength to bid defiance to the herald of good tidings and to secure the hold of their superstition on the Celtic race, for their demoniac oracles had announced that the messenger of Christ had come to Erin. St. Patrick arrived at the hill of Slane, at the opposite extremity of the valley from Tara, on Easter Eve, in that year the feast of the Annunciation, and on the summit of the hill kindled the Paschal fire. The druids at once raised their voice. "O King", (they said) "live for ever; this fire, which has been lighted in defiance of the king and the agency of the druids, repeated attempts were made to extinguish the blessed fire and to punish with death the intruder who had disobeyed the royal command. But the fire was not extinguished and Patrick shielded by the Divine power came unscathed from their snares and assaults. bearing aloft a copy of the Gospels, and followed by St. Patrick who with mitre and crozier was arrayed in full episcopal attire, proceeded in processional order to Tara. The following is a literal translation of the Universe. I'll tie myself today. The virtue of the Incarnation of Christ with His Baptism, The virtue of His councifixion with His burial, The virtue of His councifixion with His Baptism, The virtue of the resurrection to reward In the prayers of the patriarchs, In predictions of prophets, In the preaching of the Apostles, In the faith of the Confessors, in purity of the holy Virgins, in acts of righteous men. I'll tie myself today. The Power of Heaven, The Light of the Sun, The Splendour of the Moon, The Splendour of Fire, The Lightning, The Speed of the Wind, The Deep of the Sea, The Stability of the Earth, The Compactity of the Rocks. Today they bind me to the power of God to guide me, the word of God to take care of me, the word of God to take care of me, the word of God to take care of me, the word of God to take care of me, the shield of God to protect me, the spirit of God to assure me, the nature of demons I invoke all these vicious virtues today What can relieve my body and soul, Against the deceptions of idolatry, Against the spells of women, and blacksmiths, and wrinkles, Against every knowledge that unites the soul of man. Christ, protects me today against every poison, against drowning, against the deadly, so that I may receive abundant reward. Christ on my left, Christ on the fort, Christ on the chariot seat, Christ in every ear that hears me. Today I find myself, the strong virtue of an invocation of the Trinity, I believe that the Trinity in Unity The Creator of the universe. Saint Patrick remained during Easter Week in Slane and Tara, developing for those who surround him the lessons of divine truth. Meanwhile, the National Games were held a few miles away in Tailten (now Telltown) in connection with the Royal Feast. St. Patrick who proceeded to the solemnly administered baptism to Conall, brother of the ard-righ Leoghaire, on Wednesday, April 5. Benen and others had already met in private in the fold of Christ, but this was the first public administration of baptism, recognized by the actual edict and, therefore, in the former Irish kalendars on the fifth of April is assigned "the baptism of Ireland". This first real Christian boss gave Patrick a gift of a place for a church that currently retains the name of Donagh-Patrick. The blessing of heaven was with Conall's family. Saint Columba is considered among his descendants, and many of the kings of Ireland until the eleventh century were of his race. Saint Patrick left some of his companions to continue the work of evangelization in Meath, so he began auspiciously. He himself would visit the other territories. Some of the heads who had come to Tara were from Focluth had called him to return to Ireland in Vision, he resolved to accompany those heads on their return. In his preaching, the king and six children, with 12,000 of the people, became docile for the faith. He spent seven years visiting all the districts of Connaught, organizing parishes, forming dioceses and instructing the chiefs and people. on the occasion of his first visit to rathcrogan, the royal headquarters of the kings of connaught, located near Tulsk, in the county of roscommon, occurred a remarkable incident, recorded in many of the saint. near the clear source of clebach, not far from the royal abode, patrick and so venerable companions had thrown so tents and at dawn they sang the praises of the highest, when the two daughters of the Irish monarch: ethne, ethne, the fair, and fedelm, the reddish, came there, as was their custom, to bathe. astonished by the vision that they were presented, Are they ghosts, fairies or friendly mortals?" And the ancient narrative adds: "When they received the Eucharist of God, they slept in death, and were placed on a sofa, mounted on their white baptismal garments." 440 St. Patrick entered the special work of Ulster's conversion. Under the following year, the ancient annalists relate a wonderful spread of the Faith throughout the province. In 444 a church site was granted in Armagh by Daire, the head of the district, and in the end the boss told him to select anywhere he deems fit for his religious purpose. Saint Patrick chose that beautiful hill on which is the old cathedral of Armagh. While he was marking the fawn on their shoulders and followed by the feat, he proceeded to a neighboring hill, and set the fawn, and announced that there, in the future, would give great glory to the Most High. Precisely on that hill set by Saint Patrick, which, a few years ago, was solemnly dedicated to the new and beautiful Catholic cathedral of Armagh. A representative of the Holy See presided on the occasion, and hundreds of priests.tS ed otanisesa le arap odnazinagro abatse es euq amart al <sup>3</sup>Åhcucse narhdO, oirotirret le rop odnasaP. lots<sup>3</sup>Åpa ortseun ed etreum al rop otlusni le ragnev <sup>3</sup>Åruj, odajorra odneis olodÅ ese rahcucse la ,y, n<sup>3</sup>Åicaroda laicepse noc, hcaurC morC, lod-oinomed la <sup>3</sup>Ånoh otirtsid ese ed lapicnirp etrap aL.ritr;Åm led anoroc al <sup>3</sup>Åznacla ,oicirtaP naS ed orrac le ,narhdO euq ,s'neeuQ y eradliK ed selautca sodadnoc sol ed saretnorf sal ne ,retsnieL ne euF .amoR ed odÃart aÅbah euq sasoicerp saiuqiler sahcum noc <sup>3</sup>Åiceuqirne al y ,ynnekliK ed daduic lautca al ed acrec ,nÅtraM naS ed n<sup>3</sup>Åicacovni al ojab aiselgi anu <sup>3</sup>Åigire Åuqa ;yrossO a narwoG ed s©Åvart a <sup>3</sup>Äidecorp oicirtaP naS .retsnieL odot arap n<sup>3</sup>Äigiler al ed lapicnirp ortnec le odneis <sup>3</sup>Äiugis ev euq elbaredisnoc opmeit nu rop y ,opsibo omoc odalatsni euf ,hcahtbuD , noherB efej led ojih ,ccaiF naS ,wolraC ed otaidemni oirrab le ne ,yttelS nE .sorgalim ne <sup>3</sup>Ärtsom es soiD ed redop le euq sol ne sodargas seragul sol y ,ozop otnas us ,<sup>3</sup>Ädnuf euq aiselgi augitna al ed saniur sal â otirtsid le ne nadnuba aÂvadot otnas led sotnemunom soL .retsnieL ed yer led sojih sod a <sup>3</sup>Âzituab ,saÂd solleuqa ne laer aicnediser al ,saan nE .eugeilp le ne setnanrebog sefej sol a rinuer are oicirtaP naS ed airamirp n<sup>3</sup>Âicneta al ,erpmeis omoC .nellucliK ed opsibo remirp le omoc odarnoh se ets©Â euq sartneim ,yssolliK ne <sup>3</sup>Ädnuf euq aiselgi al ne odineter eugis oremirp led erbmon lE .solle a odangisa yeffiL led ellav ocir le naÄnet ,suninresI naS y oicilixuA naS ,otnas led sol .retsnieL ed s retslU eD .soiD ed onrete roma us y ,sadinu dadeip y ef us a otubirt omoc omisAtlA la lardetac asoirolg ase a Aicerfo na Aisaco ase ne asednalri azar al adot , etnemlaer esriced a Ardop , ohceh ed ,y ;sopsibo noreinuer es Alla And while they were on the chariot to continue their journey, he asked the saint, as a favor, to take the reins, and to allow for the day to maintain the place of honor and rest. This was granted, and they had hardly been established when a well-directed push of a lance pierced the heart of the devoted car, which thus, changing places, saved the life of St. Patrick, and won for itself the crown of the martyr. St. Patrick followed Munster. As usual, their efforts were directed to combat error in the principal centers of authority, knowing well that, in the ways of conversion, kings and chiefs would soon be followed by their subjects. In "Casel de los Reyes" he was received with great enthusiasm, the leaders and the Brehons and the Breho king of Munster, the saint, supported in his crossier, pierced with his sharp point the foot of the prince. Aengus bore the pain without moving. When Saint Patrick, at the end of the ceremony, a pity for the joyful blessings of the Faith that were imparted. The saint admired his heroism, and took the shield of the chief, inscribed a cross with the same point of the crucier, and promised that that shield would be the sign of countless and holiness had gone before him, and the inhabitants of Thomond and Munster of the north, crossing the Shannon in their fragile hurdles, rushed to receive his instruction. By giving them his blessing at the top of the hill of Finnime, looking at the rich plains in front of him, it is said that he prophesied the arrival of St. Senanus: "To the green island in the West, inBoca del Mar [that is, Inis-Cathaight, now Scattery Island, in the mouth of the Shannon, near Kilrush,] will come the line of God's people; He will be the head of the Council to this territory. "In Sangril (now singland) in Limerick, and also in the Gerryowen district, the holy wells of the saint will be seized, and the rock slab, which served for his bed, and the altar on which each day offered the holy sacrifice. On the banks of the suit, the Blackwater and the Lee, where the saint preached during for a Cordial welcome. The ancient life attests: "After Patrick had founded Cã © Lulas and Iglesias in Munster, and had ordered people of each degree, and heal the sick, and resurrected the dead, Adiós told them, and his blessing in each treasure that will occur in its plains, without anyone being in need of help, God's blessing is in Munster. A blessing in his peaks, in his naked lines, a blessing in his Glens, a blessing on his ridges. Purgatory. Another theater of his miraculous power and piety and penitential austerities in western Ireland deserves special attention. At the western Connaught there is a variety of high mountains, which, arranged in resistant majesty, offer challenge to the waves and storms of the atlist. At the head of this range, a majestic cone arises in lonely greatness, about 4000 feet, in front of Clew Bay, and throwing its shadow on the contiguous districts of Aghagower and Westport. This mountain was known in the pagan ã  $\tilde{a} \tilde{a} \tilde{a} \tilde{A} \pm a$  of the guy, but since Ireland was illuminated with the light of faith, it is known as Croagh Patricio, in obedience to the Guardian Guardian of him, made this mountain of the sacred retirement of him. In imitation of the great Jewish legislator in the Sinaã, he spent forty days at his fast and prayer summit, and other penitential exercises. Its only refuge of the fury of the stone of the flag in which he rests his limbs tired at night he still seated. All the proposal of his prayer was to obtain special blessings and mercy for the Irish race, whom he evangelized. The demons that made Ireland their battlefield gathered all their strength to tempt the saint and disturb him in his loneliness, and reject him, if possible, of the pious proposal of him. They gathered around the hill in the form of vast flocks of horrible raptors. So dense they were their ranks that they seemed to cover all the mountain, as a cloud, and they filled so much the air that Patrick could not see the sky or the earth or the océ. St. Patricio gave God to disperse the demons, but for a while it would seem that his prayers and halls were in vain. He called his sweet bell, symbol of his preaching of the divine truths. No storm of persecution was stirred to assault the children's church, but the saint himself was subjected to frequent trials at the hands of the Druids and other enemies of faith. He tells us in his "confession" that not less than twelve times he and his companions were captured and taken as captives, and on one occasion in particular he was loaded with chains, and his death was decreed. But of all these trials and sufferings he was released by a benign providence. It is due to the many difficulties that he endured for faith that, in some of the ancient martyrologies, is honored as martyr. prepared for the summons to his reward. St. Brigid came to him with his chosen virgins, bringing the gnat in which he would be consecrated. It is recorded that when Saint Patrick and St. Brigid joined in his last prayer, he was shown a special vision. He saw all Ireland lit with the brightest rays of divine faith. This continued for centuries, and then the clouds gathered around the devoting island, and, little by little, religious glory faded, until, over the course of centuries, it was only in the most remote valleys that the light would never be extinguished, and, as he prayed that the light would never be extinguished, and, as he prayed that the light would never be extinguished. cease." As he prayed, the bright light grew in brightness, and he did not cease until once again all the hills and valleys of Ireland lit up in his virgin splendor, and then the angel announced to St. Patrick: "It will be the permanent splendor, and then the angel announced to St. Patrick "It will be the permanent splendor, and then the angel announced to St. Patrick "It will be the permanent splendor of the divine truth in Ireland." In Saul (Sabhall), St. Patrick received the summons to Reward on March 17, 493 [see note above ¢ â, ¬, ed.]. St. Tassach administered the last sacraments. His remains were wrapped in the roof woven by the hands of San Brigid. The bishops and the clergy and the faithful of all the parties are pushed around his remains to pay due honor to his faith. around his Bier. His remains were buried in the boss of the boss or Fort two miles from Saãol, where the Down Cathedral emerged after the time. The writings of St. Patrick "Confessio" and "Epistola ad Coroticum" are recognized by all modern critical writers as an unquestionable authenticity. The best edition, with text, translation and critical notes, is from Rev. Dr. White for the Royal Irish Academy, in 1905. The 34 cages of a synode held before the year 460 by St. Patrick, Auxilius and Isterninus, although rejected by Todd and Haddan, have been placed by Professor Bury more there the reach of the controversy. Another series of 31 ecclesiastical cages entitled "Synodus Secunda Patritii", although without a doubt of Irish origin and dating before the end of the seventh century, it is generally considered a later date that St. Patrick. Two extensions (in P.L., Liii), entitled "of Abusionibus Saeculi" and "of HÃ; bitaculis tribes", were composed of St. Patrick in Irish and translated into latiz in a later perãodo. Their passages are assigned to San Patricio in the "Collectio Hibernensis Canonum", which is of unquestionable authority and dates of 700 (WasSerschleben, 2⪠ed., 1885). This "Collectio Hibernensis" also assigns St. Patrick the famous synopic decree: "If you are quaestion in Insula oriantur, ad sedem apostolicam referantur". (If difficulties arise on this island, allow them to be referred to the apostotic vision). The beautiful prayer, as "Faeth Fiada", or the "Lorica de San Patricio" (San Patricio" (San Patricio" appreciate vour feedback). ¢Ã especially notifications about typographical errors and inappropriate ads. ads.
